

Marion County Airport – Brown Field

Aviation Moves Tennessee

Tennessee's aviation system is made up of 78 public-use airports, which serve aviation needs from commercial passenger jet operations to single-engine recreational flights. To understand how Tennessee's airports support the state's economy, the Tennessee Department of Transportation (TDOT) Aeronautics Division undertook the Aviation Economic Impact Study. This study determined that Tennessee's aviation system generated 220,936 jobs and contributed $40 billion in 2019 to the state's economy, accounting for 11% of Tennessee's 2019 gross domestic product (GDP).

About Marion County Airport – Brown Field

Located minutes from the Tennessee-Georgia border, Marion County Airport – Brown Field (APT) is near the town of Jasper and less than 30 miles west of Chattanooga. The airport's onsite tenant, Chattanooga Skydiving, attracts thrill-seeking visitors from the surrounding area and nearby Chattanooga. Chattanooga Skydiving operates daily, which accounts for a significant number of operations and creates a large revenue stream for the airport due to the tenant's purchase of airport-owned fuel. This activity is supported by the airport's 3,498-foot runway and fixed-base operator, which provides a variety of aviation services. Assisted by its close proximity to I-24, six local businesses currently base aircraft at the airport, enjoying easy access to the Chattanooga area. Marion County Airport – Brown Field is also popular with recreational users that seek out boat races on the Tennessee River and mountain bike races in the nearby recreation areas.
